Librarian

REPORT OF THE CONWAY PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Conway Woman's Club, Miss Gertrude Shurtleff, Mr. Paul Dixon, Mr. Leroy Lewis, Mr. Charles Chamberlain, Miss Alice Hastings, Mr. Cecil Head and Mr. Clarence E. Eastman gave valuable books this last year to the library.

Particularly should Mr. Eastman be mentioned, for in the last eleven years, he has given over one thousand books, these for the most part have been Western Stories or books for the Boy Scouts. Mr. Eastman died at Pasadena, California, on June 21, 1939. In his will he gave and bequeathed to the Conway Public Library two thousand dollars. The interest on this amount will be used annually for the purchase of books.

Book Week was recognized by a realistic display of dolls from "Around the World" These were designed and made by Miss Pollard. The excellence of their construction won state-wide publicity. In all events that relate to the progress of the library Miss Pollard has been outstandingly able. Because of her unceasing interest and ability, our Library gives a service to Conway people that is excelled by only a few towns in New Hampshire.

Miss Pollard contributed to the program of the District Meeting of New Hampshire Librarians that was held at Center Ossipee, and attended the Fiftieth Annual Meeting of the N. H. L. A. that was held at the Plymouth Teachers' College. Her assistant, Miss Mary Roberts was a student at the Summer Library School, held at the University of New Hampshire.

The exhibits at the Library this year included:

Wood Cuts and Oil Paintings	by W.P.A. Art Project
Pencil Paintings	by John Pratt Whitman
Oil Paintings	by Benjamin T. Newman

On December 21, 1939, Mr. Newman gave to the Conway Public Library his painting "The Soap Makers." This picture had a conspicuous place in the State of Maine Exhibit at the 1892 Chicago World's Fair. Even at that time it depicted a type of work that was nearly obsolete. Aside from its value as a work of a distinguished artist, it will be of increasing value from the view point of history. It is hung on the east wall of the Library Hall where it may be enjoyed by all people who live in, or come to our Saco Valley Region.

Miss Pratt, with the State Bookmobile, Mrs. McKeen, the librarian at East Conway, Mrs. Snow at Center Conway and Miss Pollard at Conway have contributed much to the advancement of library work in this town.

Report of Superintendent

To the School Board and Citizens of Conway:

During the summer an expenditure of approximately $450 was made at the Shirley school for grading and painting. The result is a marked improvement in the appearance of the building and of the grounds. A special appropriation was made last March for this expense.

Other projects undertaken and completed include grading of the school grounds at North Conway and the installation of lights at Redstone and at Center Conway. There was no appropriation for these projects but a sufficient balance was left over from last year to take care of the cost.

In 1930 there were 144 pupils in the North Conway schools. The number has steadily increased and we find this year a registration in excess of 200 pupils. The problem of distributing sixty or more additional pupils in the several grades has been complicated by the limitations of the building. There are four excellent class rooms, one that is passable, one too small, and a large room used for assembly. An arrangement has been worked out, however, so that each of the first four grades has a separate class room, the fifth and sixth grades are together in another room, and the seventh and eighth in another. To partially relieve congestion in the upper grades an overflow room takes care of some pupils from both the sixth and the seventh grades. For the present this is a satisfactory organization and has resulted in greatly increasing the effectiveness of the teaching. The fourth grade now occupies a part of the assembly room which has proved to be a very satisfactory class room and entirely comfortable. This plan made necessary the employment of an additional teacher and the expenditure of $350 for furniture and refitting. The expense for the additional teacher was not included in the budget for the current year but the employment of the teacher was considered justifiable for the educational interests of the children. The budget proposed for next year provides for a continuance of the present arrangement.

A more satisfactory solution of the North Conway situation is to divide the assembly room into two large class rooms, move the upper grades upstairs, assign a separate teacher to each of the first five grades, and organize the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in one school with two teachers and some departmental teaching. This plan was successfully followed in the Conway school for a number of years.

Electric lights are already installed throughout this building. At the time they were put in, the thought was that they were for general convenience and not particularly for class room use. At any rate when used on dark days during school hours, they are entirely inadequate and highly detrimental to eyesight. Each class room at least should be provided with approved lighting for use on dark days and late winter afternoons. Drinking fountains and a lavatory should be placed on the second floor.

By referring to statistical Table I, it will be noted that our one-room schools are filled to capacity. Thirty pupils distributed in a maximum of eight grades is a heavy load for the most competent teacher. However, the records show that pupils from these rural schools come to the high school with fully as good a preparation as the pupils from the village schools.

At this writing the final audit of the Public Works Administration on Project N. H. 1121F has not been made and the amount of the final payment of the government to the Building fund is not yet determined. The last piece of equipment has been installed and the final settlement should occur within a few weeks.

The school board had hoped that the government would participate in paying forty-five per cent of all items of equipment, but the school district will have to pay the entire bills for the small shop tools, kitchen utensils and dishes, and for the drawing instruments, on the ruling that they are not "permanent" equipment. We expect however, participation by the government in all other major equipment for shop, furniture, laboratory, cooking and sewing room, stage, bleachers, assembly seats, curtains, and electric clock and signal system.

The capital indebtedness of the district on account of the high school addition is $85,000 represented in bonds bearing two per cent interest. The first bond for $5000 will be paid in February, 1941, and the last bond matures in 1959. For the first part of this term the bonds are for $5000 and during the latter part of the term for $4000.

We have incurred some obligations which we did not anticipate and in which the government will not participate. The contract with Mr. Cunningham did not provide for grading and this had to be done at the expense of the district. A very excellent job was done for approximately $2000. There is also an item of $200 for an asphalt tile floor in the cooking room because we found that a cement floor was unacceptable. All cement floors we painted at the completion of the contract. Much of the labor was provided by students under the direction of Mr. Berry.

The increase of operating expenses on account of manual and domestic arts courses, including salaries and necessary supplies is about $3400. The increased cost of maintaining a larger building in the items of fuel, light and power and additional janitor service is estimated at $2200.

The largest item of school costs is salaries of teachers. Salaries paid in Conway are low in comparison with the average salaries throughout the state.

	Average in Conway	State Average
High school men	$1760	$1918
Elementary men	1325	1413
High school women	1350	1418
Elementary women	910	1093

In comparison with other school districts the per pupil cost in Conway is: Kennett high school, $95.69; state median, $104.29; elementary Conway, $59.87; state median, $81.07.

Comparison of per pupil costs however has interest but not necessarily any great significance because the factors that contribute to schools' costs are different in each district.

There is a fallacy entertained by many intelligent persons. Some believe that industrial and household arts courses are a concession to mediocrity and an opportunity chiefly to those who cannot succeed in ordinary school work. This view is entirely incorrect. It is true that occasionally a pupil who has little interest in school finds a new impetus in the opportunity for industrial and domestic course. When this happens we are happy, but very often it does not happen. The opportunity for this kind of work in school is no cure-all. In general those who do well in their academic studies succeed also in the manual and domestic arts courses. This new (to us) type of school work makes its appeal to the gifted as well as to those of less abilities because this is a new age. The fetish of the white collar job is no longer potent. Those who are obsessed by the idea that a white collar job is the only desirable goal may well be reminded that most white collar jobs are preceded by service in overalls.

The administrative and clerical work of this union has increased by leaps and bounds during the last three years, and the direct supervision of instruction by the superintendent has been largely abandoned. The situation cannot be otherwise until we can afford to maintain an office and a full time clerk.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. FULLER,
Superintendent.

February 20, 1940.

Report of Headmaster

John H. Fuller, Superintendent of Schools:

I submit the following report of Kennett High School, based largely upon the school of the current year.

We have had a total registration this year of 223 pupils: 109 boys and 114 girls. This is the first year for some time that the number of girls in high school has exceeded that of boys; but it is the usual situation in the country as a whole. There are 5 post graduates, 49 Seniors, 45 Juniors, 70 Sophomores, 54 Freshmen. Post graduate students have been admitted only when their presence was evidently not in any way detrimental to the class of undergraduates in subjects they desired to take.

Fourteen pupils have left school during this year: 3 Seniors, 3 Juniors, 3 Sophomores, and 5 Freshment. Of these four have moved out of town, three were employed, two were ill, two lacked interest in school, and three were unable to keep pace with their classmates. It is too early yet to see the effect of the holding power of the new courses in Industrial Arts and Home Economics; but we expect this will become evident another year. The boys and girls who have left did not have time to learn to know and appreciate the new courses. The morale among pupils registering in this group is exceedingly good; perhaps this explains the remarkably few failures to be noted below.

The attendance for the half year just completed has been very poor; the worst I have known in my school experience. Various types of illness explain a great deal of this trouble, but many pupils and parents fail to appreciate that lost work cannot be completely made up. A student's grades may or may not show loss, but in the long run, over a period of time the gaps in background show, and the pupil is handicapped. This is most evident among brilliant pupils, who have been allowed to omit a grade.

Parents who allow their pupils to miss school for trivial reasons, who make dental and other appointments on school time, are doing their children a real disservice. During the first semester, however, we had 56 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy. The future employers of these boys and girls will be pleased with such habits, and I believe these students have made a real step toward success both in and out of school.

The registration by classes follows: English, 222; French, 47; Latin, 48; Science, 108; Mathematics, 115; Social Science, 176; Commerce, 140; Industrial Arts, 65; Home Economics, 70. The registration in the latter two courses seems small until it is understood that each class meets two periods each day; so that these figures might well be doubled to give the number of pupil periods. These classes are not overcrowded, but are working at better than 80% of capacity the first year. This is indicative of the popularity of the courses.

Grades at mid-year even in the face of the poor attendance, were remarkably complete, and in general more satisfactory than usual. We divide our mid-year honor lists into groups of pupils having grades of 85% or better in 3, 4, 5, and 6 subjects each. There are many who receive this grade in one or two classes, who have no recognition given them on the honor lists. At mid-years we have one pupil with honors in 6 courses; 13 in 5 courses; 22 in 4 courses, and 17 in 3 courses: a total of 53 in 210 courses, or an average of about 4 courses each.

At mid-years we had 40 pupils failing in 56 courses; not quite 1½ courses each.

I consider this a fairly good scholastic record, as reports from our graduates at college indicate that with reasonable industry in college they maintain or improve their high school grades. It is our opinion that most of the failures occurring are due to lack of home study. Parents frequently tell me that their students never do home work because they say they have none to do. Had these parents remembered the last rank cards they signed, they would have known this to be "wishful thinking."

Last June the school graduated a class of thirty-seven, twelve of whom are in college, two in nursing school, seven in trade or commercial school, four are post graduates at Kennett, two girls are married, and seven other graduates are employed. The record of the class of 1939 during the first half year out of high school is one of our best.

It has been a pleasure to work in our new plant, and to see the pride the boys and girls have taken in the use and care of it. We have not gone far as yet in realizing all of its possibilities, but we shall do so more and more in the coming years. It has been interesting indeed to see the growth in school spirit during the fall and winter, partly due to the influence of an excellent teaching corps, but in no small degree due to adequate room, equipment and curricular opportunities.

Very truly yours,

E. W. McKEEN
